INFORMATION DAY ON OPPORTUNITIES FOR EDUCATION, RAISING THE QUALIFICATION AND CAREERS IN THE SHIPBUILDING AND SHIPREPAIRS INDUSTRY

In recent months there have been increasing talks about the lack of job and career opportunities for young people with both higher and secondary education. Several reasons for this have been pointed out, apart from the economic crisis, namely the graduates' lack of work experience, the reduced demand for employees, the reluctance of employers to invest in training of new employees, etc. However, despite the ongoing crisis, the Shipbuilding and Shiprepairs industry continues to exist, it is viable and needs specialists with higher and secondary education.

With the aim:

- to help young specialists, who are about to graduate, to discover new career opportunities in the labour market, participate in educational practice (which will give them the chance to gain professional experience, develop key skills and work habits already during their course of study) and get familiar with the new opportunities to continue their studies in a higher education institution; in this regard, the communication with potential employers during the information day will enable them to make their final choice of academic specialty;
- to give the young specialists and their parents information on the good opportunities for career development and continuous training in a real work environment offered by the companies in the Shipbuilding and Ship Repairs industry, as well as adequate working conditions, individual approach to each newcomer and a salary above the average, which provides a good start to the professional career and a good standard of living, close to relatives and family;

- to arrange for the employers to meet their potential trainees and/or employees;
 - to allow the representatives of the participating universities (N. Y. Vaptsarov Naval Academy and the Technical University of Varna) to present for the participants the opportunities for education in specific and unique marine specialties, available only at the mentioned educational institutions,
- the Bulgarian National Association of Shipbuilding and ShipRepairs and the Council of the academic specialty "Shipbuilding and Shiprepairs" at the Technical University of Varna have organized the "INFORMATION DAY ON OPPORTUNITIES FOR EDUCATION, RAISING THE QUALIFICATION AND CAREERS IN THE SHIPBUILDING AND SHIP REPAIRS INDUSTRY", was held on 04 December 2014, from 10'00 am to 17'30 pm in Varna, in Gallery Graffit large conference room in Graffit Gallery Hotel.

The information day was opened for visiting for everyone who had a desire to received more detailed information about the opportunities for qualification and careers in the Shipbuilding and Shiprepairs industry.
